It was my pleasure to work with Calvin on his Doctoral Study at Walden University from 2014 to 2018. According to the Institute of Medicine of the National Academy of Science (2012), the United States is the only industrialized nation in the world that does not have a universal healthcare system. Citizens in this country spend twice the amount of money on healthcare costs, while the quality of services is only ranked 31st in the world by the World Health Organization. By using system's theory, Calvin identified those factors that are directly and inversely related to healthcare costs. If these factors go up, healthcare costs go up; if they go down, healthcare costs go down. In Calvin's study, he documents and discusses that $667 billion dollars is wasted because we don't manage these factors efficiently. He then identifies factors that are inversely related to healthcare costs. If they go up, healthcare costs go down; if they go down, healthcare costs go up. This represents a total of $391 billion. To correct this problem, we need to improve efficiencies to reduce costs and we need to reduce inefficiencies to lower costs with evidence-based practices that work (see Figure 3 on page 98). If only half of these issues were successfully worked on, hospital costs could be reduced by $500 billion. We would have enough funding to make certain that every person in the United States could have fully funded healthcare insurance (Gossett, et al., 2019). This is a book that is well-worth reading. -Kenneth D. Gossett, Ph.D. May 6, 2022 This self study course is for individuals resident in the United Kingdom, who want to make the most of their investments and pensions. Part of the process involves taking your money out of the hands of IFAs and their supporting life companies and financial institutions, because their products are usually not worth buying, nor holding onto. This book will show you the alternatives and guide you through all practical steps to make your money work optimally. Since the main share markets are now in recession, you need to know why your fund managers will be leaving your money invested in areas which are falling in value, and what to do about it. Since we can no longer reclaim the dividend tax credit, it can no longer be said that pensions and 'ISA's grow tax free - except for one loophole still left, which this book explains.  Special Offer - Buy 1, Get 2  This performance management bundle is for those who are overwhelmed with too many things to do, especially in their lives. I have every confidence you will finish, but I hope you will continue a movement to improve long after day 366... Here you begin your transformation! ~Taylor Sykes-Green, 2011 Intern for Improve Consulting and Training Group A Fresh Perspective on Myopia and Vision Improvement. Myopia (nearsightedness) has become an epidemic, and is expected to affect nearly 5 billion people by 2050. When facing a myopia diagnosis, most people feel they have no choice but to get prescription lenses. But are glasses and contact lenses really the only solution? Is your myopia truly incurable? Are your genes problematic? No! Through scientifically proven facts, this book shows you how to change your beliefs, body, mind, environment, lifestyle, nutrition, and habits to prevent myopia and improve your eyesight holistically and naturally. It will show you how to:

Jump start your journey towards better vision. Prevent myopia when your vision is perfect. Halt myopia progression or even reverse myopia naturally. Modify your lifestyle, nutrition, sleep, posture, habits, and behavior to improve your eyesight. Understand the role of stress, emotion, and mind in natural vision improvement. Harness the best prevention and cure of myopia-sunshine, nature and more. Form new daily habits and routines to promote your eye health and general well-being. John F. Kennedy said, "the best time to repair your roof is when the sun is shining." The best time to prevent myopia is when your vision is perfect. But don't lose hope if you already have myopia. "Where there is a will, there is a way." This book will help you to find your "way" to return to your ideal vision. Live BIGGER and BETTER by becoming considerably SMARTER! FABULOUS BONUS INSIDE if you get this book now The main scope of this topic is to give an update on pharmacologic and non-pharmacologic approaches to enhance uptake and penetration of cancer drugs into tumors. Inadequate accumulation of drugs in tumors has emerged over the last decade as one of the main problems underlying therapeutic failure and drug resistance in the treatment of cancer. Insufficient drug uptake and penetration is causally related to the abnormal tumor architecture. Thus, poor vascularization, increased resistance to blood flow and impaired blood supply represent a first obstacle to the delivery of antitumor drugs to tumor tissue. Decreased or even inverted transvascular pressure gradients compromise convective delivery of drugs. Eventually, an abnormal extracellular matrix offers increased frictional resistance to tumor drug penetration. Abnormal tumor architecture also changes the biology of tumor cells, which contributes to drug resistance through several different mechanisms. The variability in vessel location and structure can make many areas of the tumor hypoxic, which causes the tumor cells to become quiescent and thereby resistant to many antitumor drugs. In addition, the abnormally long distance of part of the tumor cell population from blood vessels provides a challenge to delivering cancer drugs to these cells. We have recently proposed additional mechanisms of tumor drug resistance, which are also related to abnormal tumor architecture. First, increased interstitial fluid pressure can by itself induce drug resistance through the induction of resistance-promoting paracrine factors. Second, the interaction of drug molecules with vessel- proximal tumor cell layers may also induce the release of these factors, which can spread throughout the cancer, and induce drug resistance in tumor cells distant from blood vessels. As can be seen, abnormal tumor architecture, inadequate drug accumulation and tumor drug resistance are tightly linked phenomena, suggesting the need to normalize the tumor architecture, including blood vessels, and/or increase the accumulation of cancer drugs in tumors in order to increase therapeutic effects. Indeed, several classes of drugs (that we refer to as promoter drugs) have been described, that promote tumor uptake and penetration of antitumor drugs, including those that are vasoactive, modify the barrier function of tumor vessels, debulk tumor cells, and overcome intercellular and stromal barriers. In addition, also non-pharmacologic approaches have been described that enhance tumor accumulation of effector drugs (e.g. convection-enhanced delivery, hyperthermia, etc.). Some drugs that have already received regulatory approval (e.g. the anti-VEGF antibody bevacizumab) exert antitumor effects at least in part through normalization of the tumor vasculature and enhancement of the accumulation of effector drugs. Other drugs, acting through different mechanisms of action, are now in clinical development (e.g. NGR-TNF in phase II/III studies) and others are about to enter clinical investigation (e.g. JO-1).
